Suggestions from students

- Provision of more real-world projects to help students learn better, feel more confident, and get better job chances.
- Adding more reference books would enrich the college library.
- The curriculum ought to include coding skills and foreign languages that aren't covered in the regular syllabus.
- The college should expand its co-curricular activities and launch a more robust placement drive.
- It would be really helpful if more real-life or practical examples could be included during the explanation of topics. This would make the concepts easier to understand and more engaging.
- Installing a smart board in every classroom would enable students to deliver effective presentations with audio-visual effects.
- Every student should get a fair chance to participate in co-curricular activities.
- Educational trips must be organized in every semester.
- The college should incorporate a games period in the timetable to promote stress relief and student well-being.
- More industrial visits should be planned for the students to provide hands on experience about corporate culture.
- Upgrade the college's lab system so it can efficiently handle programming tasks.
- The college should implement an anonymous grievance system that lets students report concerns confidentially, without fear of identification or retaliation, fostering a safer and more transparent campus environment.

- Renovating the girls' washrooms is essential to provide a safe, clean, and comfortable environment for every student.

Actions Taken
